Important Information

GENERAL INFORMATION

Tax Code Section 23.45(a) states that an application for agricultural designation filed with a chief appraiser is confidential and not open to public inspection.

Agricultural use means the raising of livestock or growing of crops, fruit, flowers and other products of the soil under natural conditions as a business venture for profit, which business is the primary occupation and source of income of the owner.

Land qualifies for special appraisal (1-d appraisal) if it has been devoted exclusively for agricultural use or continuously developed for agriculture for three successive years of the preceding five years and is currently devoted principally to agricultural use.

On or after Jan. 1, 2008, an individual is not entitled to have land designated for agricultural use if the land secures a home equity loan described by Texas Constitution, Article XVI, Section 50(a)(6).

To be accepted, this form must contain all information necessary to determine the validity of the claim. The chief appraiser may disapprove the application and request additional information or the chief appraiser may deny the application and you may protest that determination to the county appraisal review board in a timely manner. If the chief appraiser requests additional information, the property owner must respond within 30 days after the date of the request or the application will be denied. For good cause, the chief appraiser may extend the deadline to allow additional information. An extension cannot exceed 15 days.

You may file a late application before the appraisal review board approves appraisal records.

FILING INSTRUCTIONS

This form must be filed with the appraisal district office in each county in which the property is located on or before May 1 of each year. For good cause shown, the chief appraiser may extend this deadline for a single period not to exceed 60 days. Do not file this document with the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts.

OTHER IMPORTANT INFORMATION

After you file this application, your chief appraiser may require additional information from you before qualifying your land. The additional information may only relate to your current and past agricultural use or to the level at which you use your land for agriculture.

You must notify the chief appraiser in writing if you: stop using your property for agriculture (e.g., you voluntarily decide to stop farming); change the category of your use (e.g., you change from dry cropland to irrigated cropland); change the level of your use (e.g., you substantially increase or decrease the number of cattle you raise); change the nature of your use (e.g., you switch from growing corn to growing ornamental plants); enter, leave or change governmental programs (e.g., you put 100 acres in Conservation Reserve Program); or if you begin using your land for something other than agriculture (e.g., you build a shopping center on most of your land). You must deliver this notice no later than the April 30 following the change in use or eligibility.

If you have questions on completing this application or on the information concerning additional taxes and penalties created by a change of use of the land, you may consult the Comptroller's Manual for the Appraisal of Agricultural Land and your appraisal district staff. The manual may be found on the Comptroller's website.

PENALTIES

If your land receives agricultural appraisal and you fail to notify the chief appraiser of a change in agricultural use, you may be required to pay a penalty. You will be required to pay a substantial additional tax plus interest (rollback tax) if you stop using all or part of the property for agriculture. The rollback period for 1-d land is three years and results from a property sale in addition to cessation of agricultural usage.

If claimant fails to timely file a completed application form in a given year, the agricultural designation may not be received. If a late application is approved, the owner is liable for a penalty of 10 percent of the difference between the amount of tax imposed on the property and the amount that would be imposed without the agricultural designation.

DUTY TO NOTIFY FOR CERTAIN LANDOWNERS

If the property owner ceases exclusively or continuously using the land for agriculture as an occupation or a business venture for profit, the land may retain its 1-d appraisal if the chief appraiser is notified as required and the property owner owns land that has previously been under 1-d appraisal and the land is located in a temporary quarantine area established during the tax year by the Texas Animal Health Commission for the purpose of regulating the handling of livestock and eradicating ticks or exposure to ticks under Chapter 167, Agriculture Code.
