Pursuant to Tax Code Section(s) _____, the chief appraiser has determined, with regard to the following property, that

_____ :

Property Description

The above-described property will be taxed at its market value beginning with the _____ tax year, resulting in additional taxes, interest and possible penalties for _____ prior years.

You may protest this change of use determination to the appraisal review board by filing a written notice of protest not later than 30 days after the date of this notice.

If you do not protest or if the appraisal review board denies your protest, additional taxes and interest will be billed as subject to penalties and additional interest. A tax lien has already attached to the property to secure payment of the additional taxes, interest and penalties.

You may contact the tax assessor for each taxing unit taxing the property to determine the amount of additional taxes, interest and penalties.
